The first edition of the brand new Timber Construction Fair Brno took place with the sponsorship of the Association of timber-frame contractors and introduced a comprehensive presentation of timber-frame houses, structures and related fields of industry. The exhibitors' offer was supplemented by an exhibition of ready-to-use timber-frame houses in Building Centre EDEN 3000.

Way to the timber-frame construction – supporting programme during the fair

The supporting programme of the fair that can be generally called a Way to the timber-frame construction, introduced to the visitors all important aspects on decision-making on construction, progress of construction work, including timber-frame house funding options. The last day was dedicated to the question of what it is like to live in a timber-frame house and what the house should look like. Thus, the visitors received valuable timber-frame construction guidelines provided, to give one example, by doc. Ing. Petr Kuklík, CSc., Czech Technical University in Prague.

Consulting centre not only for timber-frame houses

The visitors showed great appreciation of the part of the fair's supporting programme having a form of a consulting centre offered by the Association of timber frame contractors and the Timber Institute. The consulting services focused not only on all fields related to timber-frame houses but also on timber protection.

What was said about the fair – Timber Construction Fair Brno

Tomáš Tesař, DOMY D.N.E.S.:

"Timber Construction Fair Brno fair was of a great benefit for us. Its first edition demonstrated a great interest of the visitors in this sector. Given the fact that this type of building is currently on the rise in the country, I see this event in highly positive terms. Our stand was visited by a number of end customers and right after the fair we will start designing their houses. We will definitely attend the next fair."

Ivan Pecl, Freedomky:

"The fair met our expectations. We were visited by a number of people mainly on Saturday, and they had to queue up to get information. They had to enter the house in waves. Brno was a success, we were satisfied that our product is in such a high demand. We even did not expect that. People were also interested in this modern and almost maintenance-free housing because it evokes the atmosphere of a cosy home. Its acquisition, implementation and installation on site is simple, fast and free of trouble entailed by a classic house construction. It is suitable for families as well as firms."

Petr Jiříček, EKOPANELY.CZ:

"Our exhibit at the fair was visited by people having a clear target in mind, which suits us. They wanted to know what wooden material can do, its price, type, advantages and disadvantages. They asked specific questions. There were a number of visitors throughout the fair. The fair was beneficial for us as we could offer comprehensive information about ecological materials."

Jana Smetanová, FACHKAS:

"The fair not only met our expectations but was highly successful for us. We made good contacts with customers as well as contractors. We made ourselves well visible in Brno. We could also see products of our competitors which is also valuable as we know how to move on. I appreciate the perfect facilities, we were satisfied. We will definitely come again next year."

Miroslav Martinů, MONED:

"We liked the fair again very much, our firm leaves Brno with a number of orders placed. We were visited by people with a true interest in low-energy house construction. Therefore, I believe that we will bring these contacts to a successful end in half a year's time with the final construction stage. The fair surpassed our expectations. Our stand was visited by customers of all age groups."
