

Interest in STAINLESS Brno steel fair is growing

For the third time, a specialized stainless steel fair is prepared at the Brno Exhibition Centre, attended by Czech and foreign specialists. STAINLESS 2013 will be held from 14 to 15 May 2013 as the most important presentation of the industry in Central Europe. Hall F, the new venue of the fair for the first time, is almost filled half a year in advance. The fair is intended primarily for specialists working in the steel industry and their business partners.

There is great interest in participation - book your exhibition area as quickly as possible!

Great interest has already been shown in the participation in the seventh edition of the STAINLESS fair. More than six months before the event, an exhibition area has been reserved by 90 exhibitors. Among them, there are leaders such as APERAM Stainless Services & Solutions Germany, ThyssenKrupp Nirosta, Marcegaglia, Montanstahl and others. Applications for participation have already arrived from ten countries; the largest representation so far is taken up by Germany, Italy and India. Hall F has already been filled to a large extent; the offer of best placed stands diminishes every day. To choose the best location, do not hesitate with your application.

The benefits for exhibitors

Uniqueness of the STAINLESS Fair lies in its narrow focus on the industry. It is visited only by registered specialists, professionals in the field of stainless and special steels. Thanks to this, participation of exhibitors can be highly effective and within two days, they can have dozens of meetings with potential business partners from all over the region. Firms acquire new contacts from the Czech Republic and Slovakia, as well as many other countries, such as Hungary, Poland, Germany, Italy, Turkey and the Arab countries. The fair is a true gateway to Central Europe for exhibitors.

STAINLESS 2011 in review – 133 exhibitors from 16 countries

The STAINLESS Fair has an exceptional position in the Brno Exhibition Calendar. It is a meeting of experts in the field of stainless and special steels, which is held once every two years. In Europe, only two highly specialized trade fairs are being held and STAINLESS has no comparison in the region of Central and Eastern Europe. Therefore, foreign clientele is predominant among exhibitors. The last edition in May 2011 had 133 companies from 16 countries exhibiting and the proportion of foreign exhibitors reached 78%. Among the 1,032 registered visitors, 29% were foreign and came from 28 countries on three continents.
